tion that was subsequently submitted. Mr. Crocker, the president of the union, occupied the chair, and there were about 100 persons present. The speaker, after reading a number of the numbers of the union, had to work up to midnight, and that account was precluded from attending.

Mr. J. B. Baker (Secretary of the Union) reported that he had had communication with the employers since the meeting, and had to know with respect to their intention of attending the meeting. He said that the employers from that date the members had to doubt all learnt, the employers would not grant the 1s. 1d. per hour that the union had asked for. It was for the meeting to decide what to do next.

In reply to a question from the body of the hall, the Chairman stated that no official communication had been received from Mr. Peterson or any other shipowner.

Mr. Lawrence hoped the union would not recede from the position it had taken up in this matter. They had on the previous day been told that the employers in all the ports had had received on a certain course. He said that it would not be said of them that they had come through the meeting without arrival. (Cries of "It never will.") He said that the union should go to the conditions formulated on October 1st.

The speaker referred to results as follows:— "Millions are being sent to prison. To the shipowners agents, and the members of the General Maritime Union, and the members of the Melbourne Water Labourers' Union, to be before you the unfavourable conditions of pay, and the discharge and discharging of vessels at sea, and to give you the results of the meeting of Mr. Crocker, 1885, the same to come into operation on and after January, 1886. day, 6. New Year's Day, Good Friday, and Eight-hours' day shall be considered strike holidays. If necessary to work on any of these days, the men shall be paid for the same. Mr. Johnson seconded the motion. Melbourne was the only port in the Southern Hemisphere where the men had no strike.

The Chairman pointed out to the meeting that the carrying out of Mr. Lawrence's resolution would mean getting up at 5.30 on New Year's Day, Good Friday, and August 1st, and that it would be better to consider the question as to what funds they could command for the successful maintenance of a strike.

Mr. Johnson believed that not one of the employers could afford to lay up his ships for a week. Success was certain if the members of the union kept together like men, and refused to work after Thursday night if the employers did not come to terms in the meantime.

Mr. Johnson said that the only reason for the responsibility for whatever loss or inconvenience might arise from the strike, for they had ample notice of the intentions of the employers, was that the men were not prepared to make every reasonable concessions that the men asked if they were so disposed.

Mr. Johnson then requested all who were in favour of the motion to stand up. Every man in the room, with the exception of one, rose, and the motion was declared to be carried.

The Chairman said he had done his best to settle the dispute in an amicable and peaceable manner and had failed. Now that the union had unanimously resolved to go on strike, he would support them in every way in his power. "Strike is strength, and if each man resolved in his own mind to make the strike a success, they would certainly win."

MUNICIPAL COUNCIL.

ST. LEONARDS.

A special meeting of the St. Leonards Council was held on Wednesday evening last, to deal with the drainage of Miller-street, and the adjacent streets. The Mayor (Alderman Jenkins) presided, and there were also present Aldermen Kyndon, Bell, Armstrong, Phillips, and Massey. Legal proceedings had been commenced by Mr. Kyndon against the owners of the premises adjoining the gutter, on account of their negligence flowing on to his property, and the council had obtained an injunction, and afterwards an extension thereof, to say proceedings until after Christmas. On the night of Tuesday last, the Mayor moved for a resolution of action for any damage sustained to his property.

With a view of stopping the flow of drainage, earth had been thrown into the gutter, and the water had run down the pipes, southward, and along Miller-street, from Bridge-street, and into the culvert crossing Miller-street, opposite Mr. Massey's. Alderman Phillips proposed that the water should be turned back to its source, and all prior resolutions which were in opposition to it. He contended that the earth thrown into the gutter would be carried on to Mr. Massey's land, by the rain-water running down the gutter, and he requested the advice prepared by the Mayor as the only feasible one. Alderman Kyndon seconded the motion, but it would have to be left till the next Government paper came out before the Council could take any steps.

The Mayor opposed to the general rate being imposed, and considered that the property owners immediately concerned should bear the cost. His contention was, that if they refused to do so, they would have a quarter of an acre and upwards of land adjoining their houses, and able to drain back from the road, shall drain back into a large pit or drain not less than five feet deep, and will cause much trouble to the owners of the premises; and that all other persons who are compelled, from want the space or the fall of the grotto, as was the case with the streets, be compelled to use the patent sloop-tub, into which the must put all their refuse and sloop-water, before it is allowed to flow into their drains leading into the streets, each sloop-tub to be supplied by the council at cost price, and to be filled as they are emptied by the occupiers of properties, at their own expense, with a saturated solution of sulphate of copper, not less than one gallon." This was seconded by Alderman Armstrong. After some discussion, the motion and amendment were withdrawn in favour of the following amendment, which became a substantive resolution, and was carried.

moved by Alderman Bell and carried <sup>on</sup> that pipe as said forthwith from the south-western junction of Ridge and Miller streets, crossing Miller-street to the eastern side thereof, and then westerly along that street to the street opposite Carlow-street, the pipe to be carried only as far as is necessary to secure a fall.<sup>12</sup>

class; and for another, since art is long and time is fleeting, if too much time is spent in conviviality, there will be too little left for honest labour. We are not at all sure that there are not classes which devote too little time to serious toil of some kind or other, and too much to recreation. It is as bad for a man to find his only business in pleasure, as it is for him to find his only pleasure in his business. The temptation just now to make a business of pleasure is, no doubt, a very considerable one.

At the same time we do not think that, taken as a whole, the people of this country devote too much time to recreation, or that they attach an exaggerated importance to their pastimes. For the individual, as well as for society, recreation is as useful as work. In those days, when men think, speak, write, talk, and live in a hurry, periods of leisure are indispensable. The money that is spent on a working-man's holiday is spent not on a luxury, but on a necessity. The world is certainly not getting worse because it is more fully persuaded that if there is a time for work, there is also a time for play. "There is very little reason, in my opinion," says Lord Macaulay, "to envy a pursuit in which the most of its devotees can expect is that by relinquishing social comfort, by passing nights without sleep and summers without a glimpse of the beauties of nature, they may attain that laboursome, that tedious, that closely-watched slavery which is mocked by the name of power." Those who know most of this slavery will be the first to confess that Lord Macaulay was right. It is sometimes said that if there were less play in connection with some of our schools there might be more and better work, but in one of the volumes recently published in connection with the Heathcotes it is pointed out that as a rule the best school athletes are the best students. That such is the fact does not, of course, prove that athleticism may not be overdone, but at present there is not very much danger in this direction.

The new Mayor of Sydney entered on his duties on Saturday. The honour that has been conferred upon Mr. Yorke by his brother aldermen is a great one, and the obligations connected with the office are both numerous and weighty. According to an old custom, the Mayor is chief magistrate of the city. Years ago, the Mayor of Sydney sat on the Bench and discharged judicial functions; but that practice has long since fallen into desuetude, and now the chief magistrate is such only in name. Nobody regrets that this is the case, but the cause we have efficient magistrates to do the business in the police courts, and there are more pressing duties to engage the Mayor's attention. For many years past, the Mayors of this city have fulfilled the duties of their office in a manner that has left very little to be desired. They have exercised the right of hospitality to the best advantage; they have protected the citizens with credit to themselves; and they have laboured earnestly to increase the solidity and beauty of the city. The war against the rookeries was begun some time ago, and succeeding Mayors have carried it on with unabated vigour, the result being that the sanitary condition of the city proper is steadily improving. Such prompt action, indeed, has been given to this matter that now, when a Mayor is elected to office, he feels that the destruction of rookeries is a duty which must not be indifferently performed. Much will be expected from Mr. Yorke during his year of office. The calling which he has followed during his residence in the colony, the position of Mayor in Press and in Town Hall, discussions on municipal affairs, the general intelligence which he is known to possess, form grounds for the expectation that he will prove a more capable Mayor than some of his predecessors have shown themselves. It is to be seen whether he will be able to live up to the expectations which are placed upon him. He is not always the most successful in office like the one which is now held by Mr. Yorke; but it will be generally admitted that they ought to be, and especially when they have leisure, considerable means, and long experience as aldermen. Amongst the many municipal matters that will be brought before the Mayor this year, not the least important will be the question of the George-street markets. What shall be done with the site? A suggestion has been made by several prominent citizens that it should be converted into a public square. The suggestion is an admirable one; and it will depend in no small degree upon the attitude of the Mayor whether the proposal is adopted by the Council. The creation of an ornamental square where the unsightly market-buildings now stand would be a monument of Mr. Yorke's mayoralty that would preserve his name for a generation; but, better still, it would be one of the greatest boons ever conferred on the city.

The efforts made by the Hon. R. C. BAKER, of South Australia, who for some time past has been residing in London, to obtain a concession of the present ocean mail service between Europe and Australia, appear to be so far successful. A London cablegram informs us that the Postal and Treasury authorities in England have approved of the scheme submitted by Mr. BAKER, that tenders are to be called for the conveyance of mails and passengers by the proposed line, and that Sir SAUL SAMUEL and Mr. MURRAY SMITH are engaged in revising the conditions of the contract. Two years have yet to run before any new arrangements can come into operation, but the delay will enable the Governments and the contractors to perfect as far as possible the system proposed. The agreement entered into by the three colonies named was to ask the British Government to call for tenders on behalf of Great Britain and the colonies for ocean mail services to be performed by British vessels. The tenders are for a special weekly service and a fortnightly service, to alternate with other services. The terminating ports are to be Naples, or some other European port, and on the outward trip the vessels are to call at King George's Sound, Adelaide, and Melbourne—the terminus in Australia being Sydney. The remaining Australian colonies, Tasmania, and New Zealand, may be persuaded to enter into the agreement. By the time this contract comes into operation the railway line will be completed from Port Adelaide, probably to Brisbane or further north of Queensland; so that practically for mail purposes, the ocean-carrying will terminate in the Gulf of St. Vincent, at the Semaphore, the mails coming overland by rail. The final principle of the proposed arrangement is the abolition of subsidies; all letters, newspapers, parcels, &c., sent by mail will be paid for as much per lb. It is proposed that Great Britain shall retain the money paid for postage there, defray the cost of the English mails to their destinations, and pay all premiums on outward voyages, the contract colonies to do the same on the homeward trip. The proposed penalty for non-arrival in time is £4 per hour, and the same sum will be paid as premium for arrival in advance of contract time. The tenders are to state the price for conveyance of mails between Adelaide and a European port in 29, 31, and 33 days respectively. So far the proposed arrangements seem satisfactory, and the present non-contracting colonies are not likely to throw any obstacle in the way of carrying them out. Their interests will, of course, be fully considered, and no attempt should be made to extort from them any sum beyond that which may be legitimately demanded for participation in the service. That difficulties will arise may be confidently anticipated. Our ocean mail services have given us trouble in the past, and they will probably do so in the future. This problem is not an easy one by any means. Still it is very desirable that the colonies should have a federal service, and we shall be glad if the object on which Mr. BAKER has set his heart is accomplished.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The English mails, dated London 27th November, and made from the East, per P. O. Co's steamer Valenta, will be received to-morrow morning in time for delivery at 9 o'clock.

San Jose Romazano, Colonial Secretary and Premier, will leave Sydney for Wallerawang by the ordinary train at 9 o'clock this morning, and on reaching Wallerawang will proceed by special train to Mudgee.

Many of the officers of the Treasury had to forego the holiday enjoyed by others on the occasion of the New Year in order to get the accounts for 1885 balanced as early as possible. In the Revenue Department the officers were working almost without intermission during the whole of New Year's Eve, though the night and up to 3 o'clock on New Year's Day.

The visit which the Minister for Works made to the Napan waterworks on Thursday last enabled him to make himself well acquainted with the progress which the present condition of the works indicate. On visiting the Prospect dam it was found that 120,000,000 gallons of water had already been stored there, and that the water was flowing into the dam at the rate of 100,000,000 gallons per day. The water in the dam will be available for use at times when the daily supply from the rivers to Sydney by the permanent works is interrupted from any cause. Mr. Garrard's inspection extended as far as Murrumbidgee.

Part of the report of the Water Conservation Commission which we publish this morning is the first part of the information which the commissioners have gathered with reference to the principal river basins and other drainage areas of the colony, and their observations upon this important subject.

Mr. W. J. FENNER, M.L.A., addressed his constituents at Glen Innes on Saturday evening. In the course of his speech, which is reported elsewhere, he referred to the probable formation of a new party, with Mr. J. P. Abbott at its head, from which he said a stable Government might be formed.

A large lot of 18-inch and 42-inch diameter cast-iron pipes, for the new sewer scheme, arrived yesterday by ship from Glasgow. At St. Andrew's Cathedral yesterday, and in the presence of an overflowing congregation, the Primate delivered his last discourse prior to visiting New Zealand. In the address reference was made to certain forms of evil, and the necessity for exercising self-restraint.

At the invitation of the local agents, Messrs. Burns, Philp, and Co., and the commander of the steamer, between 40 and 50 ladies and gentlemen assembled on board the fine steamship Duke of Argyll, lying in Farm Cove, on Saturday last, and partook of luncheon. The party was conveyed from the Circular Quay to the vessel in a steam-tender, which made several trips from the shore. About 70 invitations had been issued to merchants, wool brokers, and others, but the affair was so hurriedly got up, and the time of the year was so late, that a large number of those invited were unable to be present owing to previous engagements. The immediate object of the gathering was to bring under the notice of the public the fact that an additional line of steamers, of which the Duke of Argyll is the pioneer, is to be run between Sydney and London, via Queensland, Port, and Brisbane, in the hands of the British-India Steam Navigation Company, and they have found the trade so profitable, and that it was necessary to place on the line subsidiary boats every fortnight, mainly for the purpose of carrying cargo, though there is excellent accommodation for a limited number of passengers on the steamers which have been chosen for the purpose. Latterly these vessels have been unable to fill up with cargo at the Queensland ports, so it was decided to make a bid for a portion of the produce being sent home from Newcastle and Sydney, and it will depend upon the attitude of shippers whether the public will have the benefit of Mr. W. H. BAKER's offer. The Duke of Argyll is the oldest of the Duke line of steamers, which was constructed for the trade to India, and was built in 1873 by R. Duncan and Sons. She is in splendid order, and is a fine iron 4-masted steamer of 2037 tons net register, and 3115 gross measurement. The accommodation is of an extremely comfortable kind, though lacking in the gorgeousness and richness of steamers more recently from the hands of the builders. The Duke of Argyll is under charter to the British-India Company, and is commanded by Captain Cox, who proved himself on Saturday a very pleasant and genial host. The luncheon provided by Mr. Ferguson, of the Old Oak Hotel, was served in the dining saloon, and presided over by Captain Cox. Mr. W. H. BAKER, M.L.A., made a short speech eulogistic of the British-India Company for their enterprise and also of the local agents of the company, proposed "Success to the New Line, coupled with the names of Mr. James Burns and Captain Cox." Captain Cox and Mr. Burns responded. The ladies, proposed by Captain Cox, was responded to by Mr. A. Kennedy. After luncheon the party was taken for a run up the Parramatta and Lane Cove Rivers, the scenery of which was greatly admired, returning to the ship at about 5 o'clock. After partaking of some refreshments, the ladies pleasure came to an end, the party being landed safely at the Circular Quay shortly before 6 o'clock.

The Naval Artillery Volunteers will start on Monday morning, in the H.M.C.S. "Venus," for a ten days' cruise out at sea during which time they will probably proceed as far as Lord Howe Island and back. It is expected that over a hundred men of the force will attend, under their commanding officer, Lieutenant LEW, and there is no doubt they will derive great advantage from such a period of continuous training.

Mr. J. M. YORKE, the Mayor of Sydney, commenced the active duties of his new position on Saturday. Several gentlemen waited upon him and congratulated him on his elevation to the mayoral chair, and wished him a prosperous year of office. Mr. Young himself waited upon the Colonial Secretary, and was, in his official capacity, introduced by that gentleman to his Excellency the Governor.

The New Year's meeting of Tattersall's Club was successfully brought to a close on Saturday afternoon. The racing was very interesting, and a very large number of spectators were present at the Friday, witnessed the performance on the course. The principal event—the Carrington Stakes—was won by Mr. J. Strickland's Ben Bolt, a four-year-old, bred in Queensland, by Newbold from Lady Baldwin. In the Steeplechase, there were several falls, Uhlan coming down heavily, but there were no serious results. The winner was Mr. E. Warrum's Kangaroo, who was followed home by Soloflet and The Masher. The details of the racing will be found on another page.

We are informed that the old Art Gallery in the Domain, in which the Geographical Society are exhibiting their valuable collection of objects of natural history, &c., brought from New Guinea by the recent expedition, will be closed to the public to-day, in order that the necessary arrangements and decorations may be made to prepare for the visit of his Excellency in the afternoon. Members of the society and their friends are to be admitted at half-past 8 o'clock in the afternoon; and the Governor, it is expected, will arrive at about 4 o'clock.

On Saturday afternoon an inquiry into the circumstances attending the death of Mr. Senior, who was drowned through the capsizing of a sailing boat off Point Piper, on New Year's Night, was commenced before the Acting-Coroner (Mr. W. T. Finlay). The inquiry was held at the Soudan Hotel, George-street North, and the court-room was well filled. A quantity of evidence was taken, and the inquiry was adjourned until Wednesday morning. An account of the proceedings appears in another column.

Conserving the accident, we learn that two members of the Woolloomooloo Rowing Club, named W. G. Higgs and G. G. Higgs (brothers), were instrumental in saving life. They were rowing from Mosman's Bay to Woolloomooloo in a light skiff, and came upon the scene of the accident as the party were struggling in the water. A young man who was swimming about put hold of the boat and managed with the assistance of the occupants, to scramble into the boat. A young woman, who was two feet below the surface of the water, quite insensible, was grasped, and an effort was made to pull her into the boat, but it failed. She was then drawn to the shore at Garden Island, where she revived. In the meantime the steamer Annie came up and rescued the three other survivors.

An inquiry will be held at the Assembly Hotel this morning on the body of a man named William Davis, who expired in the Sydney Hospital on the 2nd instant. Deceased was admitted to the institution on the 15th ultimo, suffering from a wound in his throat. On that date he was discovered lying on a stretcher in a room at No. 10, Row-street, bleeding from a wound in the throat. A razor was found lying on the floor in a pool of blood close to him. He was taken to the hospital, and subsequently stated that he had cut his throat by himself in order to obtain specimens of natural history. He took an assistant with him. After some difficulty they crossed Torres Straits and landed at Kilkerrill Island. There they met Mr. Huxtable and his assistant, Pittman, both of whom were under an engagement to the German Colonization Company to assist in the formation of a colony on the German coast of New Guinea. Davis had formed a station in Kilkerrill Bay, which is not far distant from Milne Bay, in which Kilkerrill Island is situated. After residing at the latter place for some time, Cornick found that the natives were getting troublesome. He was also informed that the aborigines intended to make a great feast, and that go would be the signal for an attack on the station belonging to the German raid on Kilkerrill place. Cornick and his assistant started off to the feast. They crossed a difficult mountain pass, and arrived at the station just in time to afford help to the white men. Ultimately the natives got disheartened, and left the place. Several other attacks were about to be made on the white men during Cornick's stay at New Guinea, but he was unable to carry them out. After obtaining a good collection of specimens, Cornick and another embarked on board the Papua in December, intending to proceed to Australia. The steamer struck on a portion of the Barrier Reef, and was wrecked. After spending several days in open boats, the crew and passengers reached Cooktown Harbour. From a full account of his adventures Mr. Davis will appear in the Echo during the week.

On Saturday afternoon detectives Cocking and Groves made a raid upon a gang of men who were suspected to be Brisbane pickpockets on the Rawick Roadhouse, and arrested two of their number. At the latter they were found to be in possession of a large number of silk pocket-handkerchiefs, a pair of gloves, a gold watch, and other articles which are supposed to have been stolen. A portion of them were hidden up the men's waistcoats. The rightful owners should apply at the Detective Office.

The week of united and universal prayer commenced yesterday. The meetings during the week will be held in the large hall of the Young Men's Christian Association. Addresses will be delivered by—this evening, Rev. J. Bannister; Tuesday, Rev. D. D. Scott; Wednesday, Rev. J. Bannister; Thursday, Rev. G. Campbell; and on Friday evening the Rev. Charles Bright will preach at a united communion service, to be held in the Pitt-street Congregational Church. The Sydney United Evangelical Choir will lead the singing.

The statistical returns of the metropolitan fire brigades for the year 1885 are as follows:—From the time we take the following abstract of the work done by the fire brigades of Sydney during the past year:—There were 42 false alarms; 51 chimney fires were attended with hand pumps, and 13 with engines, these latter having been reported as house fires. The slight fires were—insured, 108; not insured, 53; insurance not known, 12. Unknown, 1. Totally destroyed—insured, 15; uninsured, 7; unknown, 1. The total number of calls during the year was 203. The trades principally affected were—Grocers, 9; licensed victuallers, 8; stables, 6; tobacconists, 5; bedding manufacturers, 5; tailors, 6; private dwellings, occupied, 65; unoccupied, 4; while numerous other trades suffered only in a smaller degree. The following table shows the number of calls, as follows:—Denison Ward: 50 calls, of which 20 were fire, Brisbane Ward: 30 calls, 10 fire, Bourke Ward: 24 calls, 14 fire, Macquarie Ward: 24 calls, 14 fire, Phillip Ward: 23 calls, 14 fire, Cook Ward: 21 calls, 11 fire, George Ward: 17 calls, 13 fire, Fitzroy Ward: 8 calls, 4 fire, and the city, 204 calls, 119 fire. In the suburbs there were 95 calls, with 77 were fire, St. Leonards heading the list with 14 calls and 9 fire; Balmain being second with 10 and 9 fire. The other suburbs gradually diminished in numbers. Great credit is due to the superintendent (Mr. Bear), the secretary, and the officers of the Metropolitan Fire Brigade for having rendered the returns so complete and so carefully compiled.

was cranked, and that he ought to be killed. Ah! You had been good to him (witness), but only his mouth was good, his heart was bad." In reply to Ye Yen, the injured man said: "You come into my hut to kill me; you no good; too much talker." Ye Yen and Ah Fukion have both been lodged in prison on a charge of attempted murder. The surgeon at the hospital fears that the wound will cause inflammation which will produce death.

The North China Herald, writing on the Native Christian Church at Foshow, says:—"Recently a very remarkable development of Christian activity is said to have taken place. A number of native converts have of their own accord volunteered to go as Christian missionaries to Corea; a very wealthy old Fukion gentleman, himself a devout convert, has given generous support to the undertaking, and in a few days the little band of devoted men intend to start for their field of labour under the tutelage of the Rev. Mr. Wolfe. No special protection is afforded to British missionaries by the Treaty between Great Britain and Corea, nor, indeed, has any permission been given by the Government for the preaching of Christianity during the month of January. At the same time, we believe that there are already a number of Korean converts to Protestant Christianity, while the Catholic missionaries have been labouring in the country for many years, with a fair amount of success, considering the great difficulties they have encountered. And there is certainly no treaty between Corea and China in which Chinese converts are prohibited from visiting the former country for purposes of religious propaganda. The high estimation in which the Chinese appear to be held in Corea will do much to facilitate the work of the missionaries from Fukion, and it is to be hoped that the apparently receptive nature of the Korean disposition will help to facilitate their work. As far as we know, this is the first instance of any Chinese Christian having been sent from one country to preach Christianity among other nations."
